

Fashion and Style

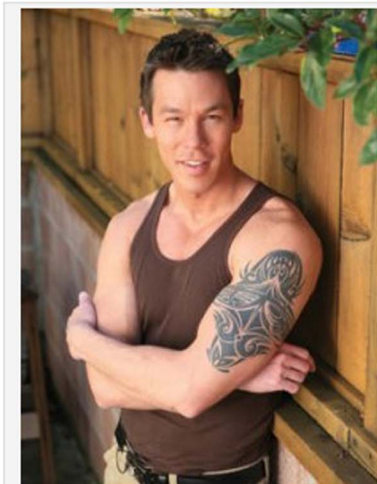

« Previous Post

Next Post »

HGTV Color Splash star David Bromstad sits in the hot seat

by: Rod Hagwood

April 4th, 2011 | 10:41 AM

David Bromstad and his inked-up guns. Photo from HGTV.com

David Bromstad's mission seems to be to bring that SoFla love of vivid color to the world of interior design.

Currently living in Miami Beach, Bromstad came to fame by winning the first season of HGTV's Design Star.

He has since put his Crayola-palette (no doubt developed as a Disney illustrator) to good use as the host of Color Splash on the home-centric cable network.

Even though he was born in Minnesota, the 37-year-old is a longtime Floridian having moved to the Sunshine State to attend Ringling College of Art and Design in Sarasota.

We got him to sit in the hot seat at WSFL-TV. Check it out:

Video:Ⓜ

